VI. Individual Reports

Cataloging Department Report FY 2009/2010 (reported by Laura Kirkland)

Statistics:

Total 2009/2010

Titles cataloged (includes government documents and recon) = 10,424

Titles originally cataloged = 136

Authority Records imported/created = 10,667

URLs corrected = 18

RUSH items cataloged and checked = 26

Items with HOLDS cataloged and processed = 52

New headings for items added = 23

Call numbers created = 47

Call numbers corrected = 19

Sirsi records corrected = 3

Contents notes added = 9

Quality check on items (items processed) = 3,170

Barcodes corrected = 2

Typographical errors/misspellings corrected = 43

These statistics represent a small part of what goes on "behind the scenes" to ensure quality control and consistency in the online catalog.

Other Projects:

The Library of Congress regularly updates/changes subject headings to more closely reflect current terminology. We search our catalog for these headings and update them to remain consistent with the current/changed headings. In the last year, we updated 87 LC Subject headings in our catalog and updated 1,228 corresponding bibliographic headings.

Since the Library of Congress has begun adding death dates to personal name headings on authority records, we regularly check our database for these updated headings to correct our bib. file. In the last year, we updated 2,353 such authority records and 11,696 corresponding bibliographic headings were corrected to match the current form.

Inventory Project: With the help of our student assistants, we continue our inventory of the collection. The lack of regular student help resulted in minimal progress this year.

Working in the H classification section, we have: found 1 missing book, added 1 volume to the catalog, corrected 3 copy numbers, corrected 4 call numbers, corrected one location, and fixed records for 5 multi-volume sets.

Current indicators point to this type of database maintenance becoming less important in the future. Cooperation between libraries and consortiums, along with concepts such as shared catalogs, are being deemed the way of the future. With this trend in mind, libraries and catalogers are being encouraged to document and catalog items unique to their own collections in order to make this information accessible to the public. We have begun moving in this direction, evidenced by the increase in original cataloging numbers from last year (32 in FY 2008/2009). Much of this cataloging is for items in the Stetson collection, many of which are unique to our library. This creation of unique metadata complements the work being done in the library's digital archives collections, as access to more unique items is made available to the public.

At the request of the Head of Technical Services, we individually cataloged volumes of 4 substantial monograph sets in order to make contents notes available to catalog users. These records were input into OCLC, allowing all other participating libraries access to this previously undigitized information. The sets include: Annual of the British School at Athens (44 volumes), Shakespeare Survey (61 volumes), Studies in the Age of Chaucer (24 volumes), and Traditio: Studies in Ancient and Medieval History, Thought, and Religion (42 volumes). This involved a considerable amount of work, but the contents of each individual volume (article titles and author names) are now searchable in the library's online catalog.

We have made some changes to the way New Books are handled. New titles are kept on the New Books display for no more than six weeks. Weekly reports are now run to identify books due to be returned to the regular shelves. This enables more frequent identification of missing books. As part of this process, we are now identifying those books which get taken off the New Books shelves and reshelved in the regular collection. An in-house use is recorded for each of these titles as they are identified. This means that the library will know which titles are being used in house, even if they have not been checked out.

In preparation for the 2011 renewal cycle, I researched subscription options for over 600 journals currently received in print. I gave the information gathered to Debbi Dinkins for her review. As a result, we identified 110 titles that can be switched to online only at a savings of $5723.76, using 2010 prices. We also identified three titles that can be cancelled at a savings of $450.00
