

Jennifer L. Corbin, Director of Public Services, Assistant Professor

Jennifer Corbin is the Director of Public Services at the duPont-Ball Library. She has worked in public, special and academic libraries and has a strong background in administering and providing reference services and information literacy instruction. At Stetson, she is responsible for leading the library's public-facing services, including information literacy instruction, reference services, circulation, course reserves, interlibrary loan and stacks management. She contributes to the library website and manages the library's Research Guides. She also teaches information literacy and library instruction workshops for students in all disciplines and class levels. She works closely with the library's dean and associate dean on administrative issues and planning. Corbin has been involved in the following professional organizations:

- Association of Colleges and Research Libraries (ACRL), Immersion Program Committee, Chair, 2018-2019
- ACRL, Immersion Program Committee, Vice-Chair, 2017-2018
- ACRL, Immersion Program Committee, Member, 2015-2017
- American Library Association (ALA), Library Instruction Round Table (LIRT), President, 2014-2015
- ALA, LIRT, Organization & Planning Committee, Member, 2016-2021
- ALA, Round Table Coordinating Assembly, Member, 2013-2016
- NOLA Information Literacy Collective, Executive Board, Chair, 2016
- NOLA Information Literacy Collective, Executive Board, Member, 2012-2015

A former resident of New Orleans, LA, Corbin is an active member of the Skeleton Krewe, a small Mardi Gras marching club. Krewe members create papier-mâché skeleton masks and walk in two parades during carnival season.